SOCIETY BUSINESS

Our May D.H.S. meeting has been canceled due to COVID-19. Watch your inbox and the website for news about society activities once they can be resumed.

Tentatively, we will plan on our Sunday, August 16th, picnic at the South Duxbury Church property. Hopefully, we can somewhat resemble the "Old Home Day" event that used to take place there.

Also, let's keep in mind our annual "Let's Make a Deal" sale in early September by stock piling your unwanted stuff.

Town Meeting 2020

Our Duxbury Historical Society hosted our town's luncheon and sold coffee and snacks for the morning session again this year. Our proceeds were well over $600, mainly by our generous members, residents, and cooks that shared their recipes and delicious dishes. We thank ALL of you that assisted this event in any way. Some have said this reminds them of our old town meetings, kind of like a "Community Day."

Call for Submissions!

The newsletter committee is welcome to submissions and eager to hear from you! We would love for you to submit a story, poem, historical piece, photos, etc, that we could place in the newsletter for everyone to enjoy.

This is your newsletter—what would you like to see in it?

Do you have a story or poem about living in Duxbury or about a Duxbury resident who is special to you?

Did you write a poem or take photos when you made it to the top of Camel's Hump?

Do you have any historic photos of people, buildings, machinery, etc, that you would like to share?

These are just a few ideas—we welcome any and all submissions.

Please share your materials with a newsletter member (see names on back page) and we will place it in the next available issue.

Thank you in advance for your generosity!

A POEM AND A RECIPE

MOTHER

Mother is kind, Mother is "nice."
Mother is always giving advice.
She does all the dishes
And makes our beds.

When we get dirty
She washes our heads.
She does all the housework
And much, much, more - - -

Such as cooking our dinner
And mopping the floor.
She makes our lunches for school next day,
Poor Mother never has any time to play.

So let's have a day for mother to rest,
We'll put it in spring, the very best,
Let's put it in the month of May,
And then we'll call it Mother's Day.

NEWSPAPER CLIPPINGS

Waterbury Record, 1930

September 30, 1910
Middlebury Register

Battell's Offer to Vermont.

That Joseph Battell of Middlebury has virtually made an offer to give the State of Vermont the summit of Camel's Hump is the interpretation of a letter which he addressed to the Burlington Free Press yesterday. Mr. Battell stated that he thinks that the Hump should become the property of the State and as its owner he will be pleased to deed it over "if a few preliminary regulations can be arranged for preserving its beauty, so far as that can be done now after several unfortunate fires, and for constructing roads so as to make the mountain accessible to all of our citizens, and visitors as well." Besides the scenic attractions of the summit of this noble mountain, it contains quite an extensive timber tract, which might be made the basis for a forest preserve in accordance with the new policy adopted by the legislature. That being the case, the State would very likely comply with the regulations which Mr. Battell might see fit to specify, as to preserving the natural beauties of the place and to building a traversable road to the summit. Travel by horse to the summit will never be a pleasure in and of itself; but a road could be constructed which would permit of carriage traffic, nearly as satisfactory as to the top of Mount Mansfield, while at the same time horseback riding would be less of a discomfort than carriage riding. In the old days there was a horseback route to the summit of the Hump, but latterly that mode of travel has given way to pedestrianism; and even though the hardships of walking to the summit are quite severe, an increasing number of people are making the trip each summer. They are entranced by the beauties unfolded before them at the rugged summit, being more than repaid for their exertion. It is certainly one of Vermont's grand beauty spots and is deserving of more prominence than is now accorded it. The proposed gift of the summit to the State of Vermont, with the attendant regulations which Mr. Battell might impose, would popularize the place greatly. Such regulations as Mr. Battell mentioned in his letter to the Free Press would be acceptable, no doubt. State officials should be authorized to confer with Mr. Battell regarding his generous offer.—Barre (Vt.) Times, June 4, 1910.

McNall and Arkley, Truck Gardeners

Asparagus And Strawberries Being Raised On A Large Scale To Supply Fresh Edibles For This Territory. Raspberries To Be Added.

A much needed industry which is now being rapidly developed in this vicinity is the truck gardening business of McNall and Arkley, which is now able to supply the tables of the entire section with good things to eat in season. Not only is Waterbury and the immediate vicinity being taken care of in this respect but goods are being shipped to Montpelier and other places. J. R. Arkley conducted the business for a number of years and this season L. N. McNall has entered the business with him and the result is that the plans for the future are even more ambitious than in the past.

Asparagus is one of the principal items raised and the amount to be placed on the market is large. Two thousand new plants have been set out this year in addition to the old bed near the river in Duxbury and this will bring the garden to a considerable size.

In addition to the asparagus, strawberries which have been an important factor in this garden for many years, will be made of still more importance and 6,000 new plants were set out this year. The reputation of the place for strawberries was well established and it is the intention to develop the direct grower to consumer idea by the sale of the berries from the Arkley store. This system has been highly developed in Massachusetts and other places and with the large amount of travel over the cement road, a big market for the fresh goods is bound to come to this place.

The field next year will be enlarged when raspberries will be put on the market. More than 2,000 plants have been set out in this patch and these will make a combination which will be hard to beat for the soil on which the plants are placed is especially adapted for the purpose. In developing this business, Messrs. Arkley and McNall are adding more to the list of products of this section and by the system of marketing they avoid the intermediate expenses which should save money to the consumer in addition to furnishing him with a fresh product.

FRANK & ANNA GROW

Frank and Anna Grow

Remembering Frank and Anna Grow

By Donnie Welch

As a young lad I had fond memories of both Frank and Anna. Frank was a quiet man, tall, handsome, and a friend to all. During his productive life he was a mechanic by trade and was well known in the music field as a whale of a violinist. He was a native of Glover and migrated to this area as a young man during the federal CCC's to work on the Waterbury dam project.

Anna and some of her family came here from the northern part of Vermont in about 1935 and they purchased a small farm in Duxbury Corner. Her father's name was Louis Messier Sr. and he farmed here before the corner was developed. Their farmhouse was on the inside of the actual corner; now it is #378 Main Street, where William and Sara Whitehair now reside. Anna's younger siblings that also grew up here were Theresa and Louis Jr. "Bud" Messier. Anna also had three older siblings: Bessie, Ubaldine and Phyllis.

The barn was attached to the farmhouse during the farm operation until Louis Sr. died in an accident that was farm related. Louis Sr.'s widow Ida (Lumbra) and their daughter Theresa lived here for the next several years.

FRANK & ANNA GROW

After the dam project, Frank was employed by W.E. Collins in his Ford garage as a mechanic. He met Anna and they were married in the late 1930's. Eventually they purchased a home in Duxbury Corner. Currently, this home is listed as #448 Main Street and is located two houses east of where she grew up. They were blessed with one child, a daughter they named Lucretia Ann, but everyone knew her as Luann.

Frank and his brother-in-law, "Bud," went into partnership by purchasing a garage on South Main Street in Waterbury, as both were cracker-jack Ford mechanics. As a young guy I well remember some of those days at their garage. Usually on Sunday afternoons a bunch of us would end up there to wash our cars and chat with either Frank or Bud, whoever was on duty. At that era, Bud had just finished a stock car to race at Thunder Road. Of course that was a prime subject for all of us. His yellow and black #50 was a Ford (3 window coupe) with a modified straight eight Lincoln flathead engine. Bud was as proud of this as a peacock so he embellished our presence as he worked on his Lincoln powered #50! I can still recall Bud working on the stock car as he quietly sang to himself, "Does your chewing gum lose its flavor on the bedpost overnight."

On a quiet Sunday afternoon, we would drive into the garage. Some of the older guys were there with their beautiful, shining new cars, like the Sweetser boys—Bernard with a 1956 two door hardtop and in two tone (pink and black), then Bob with his 1956, also Ford exactly like Bernard's except his was white with a black top. Then in would come Willsie Williams with his brand new 1957 Studebaker "Golden Hawk." Then myself (and other young guys) with all we could afford—my 1953 Merc with my accessories like a rust bucket with bondo-filled fenders. But we all had a great time drooling over #50 on Sunday afternoons in the garage and then on Thursday nights at Thunder Road cheering on Bud's driver (Larry Granger) and #50 as he wheeled around the high banks at Thunder Road.

Another great adventure that we had was with the Grow family when Frank, Anna, and Luann had a band along with Howard Lamos who played the guitar. This band played for round and square dances at both Moretown and Duxbury Grange halls. They played regularly at the Town Hall in Warren every Saturday night for several years. Anna played the piano, while Frank played his famous violin, Howard was on guitar, and Luann often sang. The locals responded here on Saturday nights as grand response for this popular band. In my mind and I am of sure of others: this surely exemplifies: "these were the good old days."

Anna was a homemaker, with her usual daily tasks plus raising Luann. After that she became more involved with town affairs and community involvements. She was active in the "Hill N Dale" club that sponsored local charities. She was also for many years a ballot clerk for her town during elections, a Justice of the Peace, and town auditor for Duxbury along with her (and our) friend Lola Atwood. One unusual task that she did for many years was to be a messenger for the Duxbury Corner School as she was the only available neighbor that had a telephone near the school. She would take a message from a student's parent and walk to school and deliver a message to the appropriate teacher. This was Anna—she did her best to be good neighbor and friend. Anna, my hat goes off to you and Lord knows, we need more people like you today.

The Northeast Fiddler's Association was very knowledgeable and interested in Frank's talent with his violin plus his membership. They responded by including him in this organization's Hall of Fame.

Frank passed away in 1985 and Anna passed away in 2002. They are buried in Holy Cross Cemetery in Duxbury Corner. Their epitaph on their tombstone is rather unique, but very fitting—Frank has a violin and Anna has a piano. To Frank and Anna, rest on as your work was both rewarding and fulfilling.

The Frank Grows Of Duxbury Feted On Silver Anny.

6-25-1964

DUXBURY — Mr. and Mrs. Frank Grow was surprised June 18 at a 25th wedding anniversary party.

Their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Redfield Hoar Jr., treated them to dinner at the Brown Derby in Montpelier. Upon return home, they found friends and relatives awaiting them. Refreshments were by the Hill 'N Dale Home Demonstration Group, who sponsored the party. Mrs. Grow is a past president of the group. Mrs. Gurden Merchant, Mrs. Ross Green and Mrs. Burton Vaughn served cake and beverages. The silver and white cake was made by Mrs. Gurden Merchant. The couple was presented a corsage of red roses and a boutonniere. They received many cards and a purse of money and a large bouquet of white peonies and baby's-breath.

Frank C. Grow and Anna L. Messier were married at the rectory of St. Andrew's Catholic Church in Waterbury by the late Rev. Laurence R. Cain on June 18, 1939. Their attendants were her sister, Mrs. Lawrence Cleveland, of Northfield and her cousin, Cedric Lumbra of St. Albans.

Grow was a native of Glover and came to Waterbury in 1934 where he was employed as mechanic by the late William E. Collins at O'Neill and Collins Garage, which later became W. E. Collins and Sons, for 11 years. He went into partnership with his brother-in-law, Louis (Bud) Messier, in 1947 at the present location and known as Frank and Bud's Service. Mrs. Grow moved to Duxbury from Enosburg Falls with her family in 1935 and was employed for five years by Pilgrim Plywood Corp. following graduation from Waterbury High School.

They have one daughter, Mrs. Redfield (Lucretia Ann) Hoar Jr. of Duxbury and a granddaughter, Tanya Lynn.

Except for the first year when they lived in Waterbury, the remaining 24 have been spent in Duxbury. They have been active in school, PTA functions and civic organizations.
